ABOUT MYSELF

I have over 15 years experience with hair, wigs, makeup and styling for film, TV, fashion, red carpet and corporate clients.

I hold both PTLLS and DTLLS teaching qualifications and have written and delivered media hair and makeup courses for further education students across the UK and abroad as well as being a longstanding contributor, judge and panelist for Warpaint Magazine.

In 2013, I authored The Vintage Beauty Parlor (first published in 2013 and again in 2019) and am the co-author of The Vintage Fashion Bible (published in 2015).

In my spare time I love immersing myself in both history and art. I am a passionate reader, a qualified scuba diver and a keen swimmer, so much so, I decided to train as a swimming instructor in 2022 and now hold a license to teach swimming to both adults and children.

CURRENT EMPLOYER

I have most recently been employed as a teacher of film and TV at The London Screen Academy. LSA is a sixth form college in North London for students who want to gain a qualification to enter a career in the film and television industry. My role included writing and delivering the scheme of work for hair and makeup as part of an extended diploma course (equivalent to 3 A levels) as well as teaching elements of both costume and art direction.
