About me

I am a hard-working, dedicated individual with a variety of experience in many roles that have helped me to fine tune my customer service, time management and task management skills and now applying them to the world of production. I have a passion for film and immersed myself in film, music, media and art from a young age. I have been working hard both in front of and behind the camera to gain as much practical experience as possible in any form of production setting as it's where I feel I excel. Alongside my professional endeavours, in my spare time, when I'm not watching films, I am working on a number of productions assembling a team of skilled and like-minded individuals to produce short films gaining further practical experience.
